

Home
Our Work
AQ Lift NEW
About us
Blog
Contact

Featured

Hello / こんにちは

From our sunny studio on a Tokyo hilltop, we create imaginative graphic design and websites to help culture and business reach new audiences, in Japan and abroad.

Our work inspires people to visit, create, communicate, dream and remember.

AQlift

Rapid Design Consulting for Startups

View Plans

AQ Lift

A user-experience focused review of your service by our team of design experts. Improve your startup's KPIs in as little as a week.

Blog

We're looking for an interface designer to join AQ.

Inquire within.

December 26th, 2011

Event Report: The New Context Conference 2011 Fall

Two days of Lean Startup Bootcamp, here in Tokyo.

November 11th, 2011

AQ visits Open Network Lab for a UX Cram Session

An afternoon of sketching, copywriting and interaction design with four startups from Tokyo's premier incubator.

October 26th, 2011

» View more entries

Ongoing

My ASICS iPhone App

The desktop version of the My ASICS service we've designed is great for precision run logging, creating and tweaking a training plan and studying performance over time. The challenge with developing a mobile app was to make it both very precise in order to maximize the impact of the training plans and yet very simple to stay out of the way during running.

Bagcheck

Bagcheck is a fun way to discover and share items we use to do what we love: computing, photography, cooking or sports. Started by Luke Wroblewski and Sam Pullara in mid-2010, the site was acquired by Twitter in August 2011.

hello@aqworks.com

Phone: 03-6427-6027

Fax: 03-6427-6012

Map: Tokyo, Japan

© 2004 - 2012 AQ, except Blog articles which are released under CC Attribution-ShareAlike 3.0.
When in doubt, ask.